

What we do,
who we are,
how we work
and what's in it for you

All kinds of things can be made from PET bottles: flower vases, pen and pencil holders, snail traps or . . . they can be perfectly recycled. In which case there's about a 90% chance that the bottle is running through a plant from Borema Umwelttechnik AG.

What we do

Through independence to the optimal product

We foster long-lasting partnerships with selected suppliers in Europe. We don't just sell "off the peg" from our range, we seek out the product best suited to your needs. You obtain a tailor-made installation comprising selected components and own developments. Providing you with the security of a good long term investment for your money.

From the "simple" machine ...

Might it be a can and drum press? Or a new sliding belt conveyor? Is it a question of the speedy replacement of a drum screen or extra shredding capacity? Just call us!

... to the complex, complete plant

Extraordinary problems demand special solutions. Our experts possess wide experience in the planning and development of complex installations.

... from a single supplier

Our services range from the consultancy and concept elaboration phase through development and assembly to a 24-hour service and maintenance performance. We also undertake overall project management or act as a prime

Yet another solution for recycling a cardboard box! Provisionally at least. Sooner or later though it's most likely to pass through a recycling plant from Borema Umwelttechnik AG.

Who we are

Competence through experience

Our market is environmental technology; our passion is finding innovative solutions. On this basis we have worked since 1996 for renowned clients from the disposal and recycling branches, for paper and corrugated board producers, for logistics and transport operations, wholesale and retail, the pharma industry etc. With each project our experience grows, we're familiar with solutions from a wide range of markets, at home and abroad.

Success through consistently high quality

Borema is leader in a variety of market sectors; 40% of logistics centres, 50% of paper producers and 80% of corrugated board producers are working with products from our house. As for large scale PET recycling plants, four out of five were realised by us.

Clear and concise

We handle things personally

A basic pillar of our success is the building and maintenance of trustful, partnership relations with our clients.

We're flexible

Because we maintain an easily surveyable size, we are fast, flexible and always keep a finger on the pulse of the market.

We accept responsibility

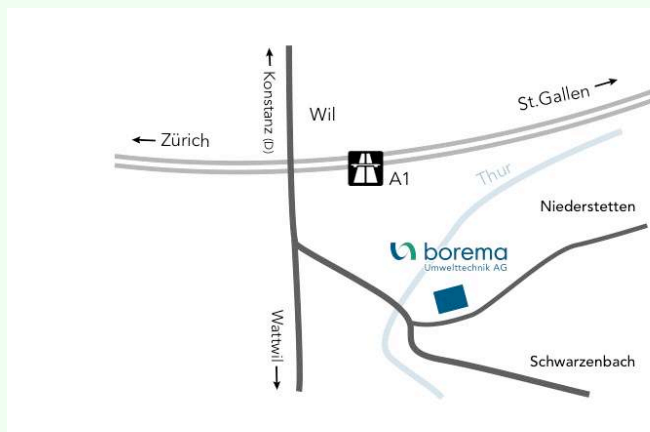

At Borema everyone has responsibility and is conscious of this. We're there for you, from the consultancy through to the delivery phase and the 24-hour service.

We keep our promises

When we say the plant has these benefits, or the machine runs until the promised date, then that's how it will be. An agreement is an agreement.

We sell security

We don't just sell a machine or a plant, we also sell you security. Security that the plant delivers what we promise; security against lengthy non-productive periods and the guarantee of many years' of serviceability.

Sometimes you have to think outside the boundaries, learn from other branches, skilfully combine, try out new ideas – or tackle the problem light-heartedly. Whatever the manner – Borema finds solutions.

How we work

Effective and efficient – doing the right thing in the right way

Even the best machine is only as good as those who plan and build it. And here's where we really are fastidious! It's our strength. For it's only those who take details seriously, who take their clients seriously. From the planning to the service stage we work with the same motivation: the right implementation of the right solution. So that in the end you can say: A good solution. The right decision.

Passionately innovative

At Borema we've kept our spirit of discovery. If, for a particular problem, there's (up to now) no solution; we'll find one. This we promise you! This is more than just a publicity slogan. This is a fact, one we can prove by various examples of enthusiastic clients. Something we're proud of. So challenge us .. you'll find we're not short of ideas. Nor of the will to get to grips with something new.
